A Worthy Candidate for Congress
If You Knew

On election day that there are 298 lawyers in Congress would you vote to increase the number? There are:

298 lawyers.
105 business men (merchants, real estate bankers, etc.)
21 farmers.
13 educators (teachers).
1 religious leader (minister).

Which classes need congressmen? The three competitors of Mr. Engleason, for Congress, belong to the two most numerous classes above.

The above report of the Clerk of Congress shows that the three greatest needs in Congress today are for:

1. More farmer congressmen. Only 21 farmers to represent the greatest industry on earth, and 298 lawyers, means the farmer's friends should be more numerous. Mr. Engleason was raised on a farm and made his living on it.

2. More educator congressmen. Only 13 teachers to help direct one of the greatest expenditures next to war, and 298 lawyers, is an over representation of lawyers and an under representation of educators. Mr. Engleason, prepared himself to teach and taught in colleges.

3. More congressmen who are religious leaders. Had one strong religious leader been among the gruffers of the Tea Pot Dome, he would have dissuaded the organization and prevented the graft.

As a religious leader, Mr. Engleason has served on 14 national committees, one being the Supreme Court of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, which decides religious contentions rising in the United States and mission fields of the world. To oppose graft, vote for such men as Mr. Engleason, for Congress.

Mr. Engleason, has voted and paid taxes in Ohio all his life and has never missed a national election. He is pledged to support the Republican platform of state and nation. He was a pioneer worker for woman's suffrage, and carried a petition for it in Hancock county when the movement was yet unpopular.

Mr. Engleason, is advanced for the office of Congressman by worthy, reliable and patriotic citizens of Hancock county who have known him many years, and who represent merchandise, manufacture, education, the professions, labor, religion and farming.

Let Marion county, which ever has taken pride in these things, all of which go to make happy homes, give a loyal support to Mr. Engleason, for Congress.

I have strictly refrained from any mis-statements about my opponents during the campaign. I am content to stand upon my record and the accomplishments in my office. I have handled more cases in my seven years as Probate Judge than Judge Spigner did in the twelve he served you. This was done without any attempted publicity and every case came to the personal attention of your Probate Judge.

I have a very fine office force both in the Probate and Juvenile Courts, and each is trained to efficiently serve you. Understand the Juvenile Court is conducted by the Judge and two Probation Officers, there being no Deputy Juvenile Judge. Every case comes directly to the Judge.

I can offer you everything that either of my opponents can, and in addition (before my election as Judge) many years of successful practice of the law and Probate Court practice.

Louis E. Myers
FOR COMMON PLEAS JUDGE

Former Senator Louis E. Myers has filed for Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, subject to the decision of the Republican primary. The term is six years. Attorney Myers was the Republican candidate two years ago for the unexpired term and was defeated by a narrow margin by reason of two Republican allies by petition, after Myers was nominated at the primary, which divided the party vote three ways.

Friends of Senator Myers feel that he was made the victim of this unfortunate circumstance two years ago. It is considered certain that no other candidate will file, so the contest of the November election will be between Mr. Myers and Judge George B. Seefeld.

Senator Myers made a notable record in the Ohio Legislature, otherwise, he has never held public office. He is 62 years of age, graduate of Landon High School, has practiced law in Marion the past 22 years, has a very large practice and has uncommon success. He is a son of Mrs. Emma Myers, who lives on a farm north of Landon-Landon Myers.

As the Republican candidate in 1926, he reduced a Democratic majority of approximately 180,000 in 1921, to less than 17,000 in 1926. He is entitled to the nomination this year because of the splendid race he made two years ago.

GRIMES FAILED

Now Big Success of Buc Hurlers, Making Initial Appearance with Pirates Complete Washout; Good Record

IN FIRST YEAR

By FRANK G. MENKE
If you have a fancy for oddities in ballroom, why not peruse the record of Bureliah Grimes?

Back in 1916 the Pittsburgh Pirates snared him from the bushes during mid-season and launched him on his real start in 1927. Very, very promptly Grimes proceeded to hang up what is perhaps a world's record of 13 consecutive defeats. He finished the year with a showing of three victories and sixteen defeats for the fearful average of .169.

So far as Pittsburgh was concerned, it had quite enough of Grimes; if it never saw him again it would be much too soon. At about this time, the Pirates wanted a few of the Grimes players, a deal was made and Grimes was tossed in as the "to boot" part of the bargain.

Debutting the following year—1918—with Brooklyn this same Grimes won 19 games out of 28 and from that day to this has been one of the star-riest of his league stars. He played out his string as a pitcher for the Dodgers in 1926 and wore a Giant uniform in 1927, during which time he won 10 out of 27 struggles.

During the winter he was swapped back to the Pirates—the same town where he had made the most awful binging of any rookie hurler since Adam and Eve occupied parking space in the Garden of Eden.

And here's the meat of the matter: "This same Grimes, who could win but three games out of 10 for Pittsburgh while he was a powerful, rugged, sprightly youth of 24, went back to the town where he had made his miserable failure and now, in his thirty-fifth year, he has rolled up a string of 17 victories and is very likely to top all the moundmen in both circuits in the matter of games won and percentage marks acquired.

PICKING winners in the Commercial league is just like betting a friend that you can beat a fellow who is just being touched by water—your are just naturally all wet.

This was the case last night when the Erie Yardmen and Shovel Club played. In advance of the game, all around the dugger had an easy game and those who are backing them to win the pennant looked upon the railroaders as mere stepping stones to higher honors.

Although the underdog failed to call that Shovel nine was better than to call it quits at the end of the thirteenth inning with the score tied at five all.

One had lining took victory from the grasp of the Yardmen. The first two Shovels up in the second got hits and the next one was walked. Then Wilson stepped to the plate and cleaned house with a home run.

Tied in Sixth
In the third frame the Erie nine made a walk good for a run and in the sixth three bingles tied the score.

In the tenth it looked mighty bad when the Shovels scored a run but the count came right back and tied the count. Three innings were played before time interfered and the contest was called on account of darkness.

Most of the time it was just too hot for the Shovels as the batters went to the plate. Two, three, batters bled for the Erie and Lashley for the Shovel.

The Eagles were given little opposition from the league leaders gained a half game on the Shovels. The Knights were blanked, 8 to 0.

Kappas Lane to Isaly
In another upset the Kappas were defeated by the lowly Isaly team 2 to 1 in a seven inning duel. The Dingles won the contest in the last inning when two runs were scored.

It was a really game that the Marion Stars won from the Erie Clerks, 9 to 4. Kerr, Star hurler, sustained a dislocated shoulder while sliding into home in the fourth inning.

THREE SPITBALLERS KEEP TEAMS IN THICK OF FIGHT FOR TITLE

Quinn, Grimes and Mitchell Set Up Good Hurling Records

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Three veteran spitball pitchers—baseball's vanishing American—are keeping their teams in the thick of the fight for the national championship.

They are Bureliah Grimes of the Pirates, who won 20 victories; the venerable John Pious Quinn, who has won 45 games for the Athletics; and Clarence Mitchell, who saved the Cardinals from rout during the last week.

By besting the Giants and the Pirates, Mitchell won a 2 to 1 duel from Fred Russell of the Pirates yesterday in 12 innings and Quinn held the Senators to four hits, whitewashing them 8 to 0.

Both victories proved to be as timely as a corker for Quinn, since the Cardinals remained four games in front of the Giants and the Athletics stayed within 4½ games of the Yanks.

After holding the Cards to five hits in 11 innings, Russell was beaten by Hatley's double and Wilson's single. St. Louis snapped Pittsburgh's winning streak by eight games, and faced the Cubs today with renewed confidence.

The Yanks got only six hits to Boston's 11, but George Pugsley broke down and hung up his nineteenth victory of the season, 5 to 2, with the aid of Gehrig's homer.

Fred Lindstrom of the Giants, a leading candidate for the most valuable player prize in the National league this season, drove in five runs with a home run and a single as the McGrawmen outslugged the Phillies, 8 to 4.

Darry Vance registered his fifth straight win, his ninth triumph in his last 10 starts and his fifteenth victory of the season in pitching Brooklyn to a 5 to 1 over Boston. He yielded only five hits and fanned seven batters, raising his season's total for strikeouts to 139.

Detroit jumped ahead of Washington to sixth place by beating Cleveland, 8 to 7. A five-run rally by the Indians in the ninth, just fell short.

Clayton's double with the bases loaded featured as the White Sox trimmed the Browns, 5 to 3, and established a clear title to fourth place.

NATIONAL CHAMPION BEATEN IN TOURNEY

George Jennings and Lester Stoefto Battle for Tennis Crown

Cleveland, Aug. 11.—Ted Drewes, of St. Louis, after carrying off the singles championship in every National Public Parks tennis tournament since 1924, will match two others fight it out for his title this afternoon.

George Jennings of Chicago, whom Drewes defeated for the singles crown last year, settled the score by defeating the old master of municipal tennis in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2, in their semifinal match yesterday.

Meanwhile, on an adjoining court, Ralph Rice, Jennings' fellowtownsman and his team-mate in the doubles, was playing it out in the other semifinal with Lester Stoefto, the much feared 17-year-old flash from Los Angeles.

Rice had taken the first set 7-5, and was leading in the second 5-2, when the Californian rallied to take five straight games and set. Rice was badly off his game in the third, Stoefto winning 6-0.

Then came a bit of drama. Learning that Jennings had beaten Drewes, Rice announced he would forfeit to Stoefto. Since Chicago was assured a representative in the finals, he wished to conserve his strength for a subsequent doubles match and to avoid the possibility of going against his partner in the finals.

So Stoefto, of Los Angeles, and Jennings of Chicago, will get together at 2 o'clock this afternoon to decide who shall wear the tennis toga that yesterday dropped from the shoulders of Drewes, where it had rested for four years.

HANE WINS

Defeats K. M. Bower in Second Round Match

K. M. Bower, runnerup in the president's cup handicap tournament at the Marion country club, was eliminated in the second round of the club championship matches yesterday by H. W. Hane, four up and three to play.

It was the only match played. The balance are slated to be completed today or Monday. Sunday the local golfers will journey to Lima.

Tunney In Statement Asks Editors To Call Off Men

South Bristol, Maine, Aug. 11.—Weakening under the glare of publicity's spotlight, Gene Tunney, in a formal statement to editors, asks that reporters and news photographers leaving him alone to the island summer home of his father here be recalled.

The retired heavyweight champion waxed indignant at what he termed the "snooping" of the representatives of the press who have surrounded him since the announcement of his engagement to "Polly" Lauder, $50,000 heiress.

Choosing his words carefully, Tunney sent the following statement to newspapers:

"It has always been a pleasure for me to meet and talk with responsible press representatives of my acquaintance. I have not uttered a word of reproach to any of them. However, in avoiding newspaper reporters on this occasion I did so merely because there was nothing I could add to the formal announcement made by Mrs. Lauder.

"Probably there are numerous matters concerning my engagement of a personal and private nature that some unthinking person would try to have me discuss for publication, but all understanding people will appreciate certain things so sacred to one in my position that any public intrusion would be inopportune and utterly distasteful.

"It is decidedly difficult for most newspaper photographers to conceive of there possibly being a few people in the world who are opposed to being photographed. If the photographers that have been snooping around John's Island these past several days have experienced any hardship and inconvenience it is only because they are slow in realizing that these are such people. If newspaper publishers understand how much embarrassment their reporters and photographers were causing these same people, I am sure, they would recall them. It certainly has not been at all sportsmanlike."

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Gene Tunney, who was "fouled miserably" by Gene Tunney when he sustained the famous injury to his eye in the eighth round, Tom Heeney boldly attacked the sportsmanship of the victor and now retired champion in an interview appearing in the London Daily Express, a copy of which reached the writer today. The story is headlined "Was Heeney Fouled?" and then goes on to give a more or less affirmative answer to its own question.

The interviewer, himself a capable observer, hints rather strongly that he believes a foul was committed and quotes to kindred effect several authorities, including Eddie Kane, manager of the lightweight champion, Sammy Mandell. Kane, he said, "expressed indignation at the treatment" Heeney had been accorded, at first declined to put himself on record, according to the Express account, but later was quoted as having said:

"Can't you tell the Daily Express readers what you have heard from others about it? I refuse to make a statement. I would like to state to you personally, that I was fouled miserably. What of it? I'm still young and I hope I'm a good sportsman."

Says Punch Not Natural
"My eye was cut by some kind of punch that was not natural. I was out of action. I was almost hopelessly handicapped but I thought could have gone on beyond the second round because I had recovered quickly."

Insofar as the writer's observation were concerned, Heeney may be right about this last contention. But indication is that he is all wrong if really thinks Gene Tunney had the slightest intention of damaging his eye by a legitimate punch. Of course, I neither saw the punch nor felt its effect so, technically, I cannot pretend to be an authority on its intent.

Col. Christian Asserts His Political Rights in Reply to Dr. C. J. Nichols

Defends His Action as Member of Cooper-for-Governor Committee and Cites Voting Record as Evidence of Republicanism; States He Met Cooper Through Harding

Maintaining his right and privilege to support any candidate for office that he may select, Colonel George B. Christian, member of the Marion County Cooper-for-Governor committee, has sent a vigorous answer to Dr. C. J. Nichols, who recently issued an open letter assailing Colonel Christian's endorsement of Cooper.

In his letter, Dr. Nichols, a member of the Marion County Republican Central committee, designated Colonel Christian as a Democrat and indicated that as such he was out-of-bounds in recommending the candidacy of a Republican.

Proof of Republicanism. Colonel Christian aims to straighten his critic out on that point by furnishing evidence of his Republicanism.

The answer was sent direct to Dr. Nichols and a copy forwarded to The Star under date of Aug. 8.

To The Star: "In your issue of August 7 I find a foreword of some considerable length followed by an open letter addressed to myself under the signature of Dr. C. J. Nichols of this city. I also received a copy of said letter by mail. Evidently Dr. Nichols desires a reply. Please give my reply as conspicuous a place likewise in your journal as you did the open letter of Dr. Nichols."

Colonel Christian's letter to Dr. Nichols is printed below, in full:

Text of Letter.

"Dr. C. J. Nichols, Marion, Ohio.

"My dear sir: Your open letter—so-called, notices that in an issue of The Star of August 7, 1934, you have assumed to recommend to the Republican voters of Marion, Myers Y. Cooper. This recommendation you say carried with it the statement that for 25 years Mr. Cooper had been one of the leading Republicans of Ohio.

"I can not understand why you single me out from among the list of 21 representative citizens of Marion county who had signed this manifesto. The Star conveys the information that it was because you listed me as a Democrat. You go on to say that I ought to know that Mr. Cooper opposed Mr. Howard Taft in 1912 and contributed to his defeat; that I ought to know that Mr. Cooper as a delegate of the First Congressional district in the sixth ballot in 1920 on the nomination of Mr. Harding.

"You go on to say that the Republican primaries of August 14th is a family affair. You then ask if I am not presuming a great deal as a Democrat to recommend to the Republicans whom they should support. You also ask if I did not know that Cooper was defeated two years ago; that he did not carry Hamilton county or his own ward; that he lost Marion county, a county where certain officials were elected by 4,000 majority. You ask me also if it is not the duty of the Republicans of Marion county to back the nomination of a man who can be elected in November and lend strength to the ticket and not be a burden.

Rights of Citizenship.

"In the first place I think the citizens of this nation under their state and federal constitutions have a right to state their opinions, to express their views as to candidates for office, and in a general way are guaranteed certain liberty of action in respect to matters pertaining to elections and candidates.

"It is useless for me to refer to the statement you make in regard to Mr. Cooper and his conduct during the Taft campaign and as a delegate to the Harding convention. If there is any one in Marion who has not listened to your song of woe in these historic matters word for word as you rehash it in your letter, they must certainly be of poor memory. Your letter repeats the dose you gave Mr. Cooper two years ago. Mr. Harding forgave, finally, Roosevelt for his defeat of Taft and he became quite a success during his short career as president. My acquaintance with Mr. Cooper was the result of an introduction by President Harding himself upon the occasion of the president's visit to Cincinnati on his way to Point Pleasant to deliver his address on the centenary of Grant's birth. I at once became acquainted with Mr. Cooper's ability and learned very much of his qualities from my personal friends, and therefore did not give the matter much thought when it was suggested I join the twenty-one in recommending him to the Republicans of Marion county. Close relatives of mine are supporting very heartily. Congressman Beck and I suppose if we had all got together I should probably have held aloof from any participation actively in this primary election.

Has Had Experience.

"I wish to say to you that I claim the right to advise people in any way I think best, but of course if the Marion county Republican central committee notifies me that you have the authority to read me out of the Republican party as a Democrat, I will abide by their judgment. During my more than 80 years I have had considerable to do with politics and sometimes think that I am able to judge of the trend of affairs correctly. Two if not three, Republican candidates for governor have been defeated in recent years. This result has come from just such men as you attacking anyone with whom you did not agree. Particularly any member of the so-called Progressive party. This party was strong enough to defeat Mr. Daugherty for delegate-at-large and if they desired they could do a great deal of damage in any election. I am thankful to say, however, that Progressive leaders are all in the Republican fold working for harmony, hoping to elect a Republican governor.

Whoever is nominated on the Republican ticket will have my support by voice and vote.

"Since your letter appeared in The Star friends of Congressman Beck have come to me and their remarks about your abuse and ridiculous attitude towards those who differ from you cannot be put in public print. They are too caustic and too profane.

Origin of Party.

"It was 10 years after I was born before there was any Republican party and consequently no Republicans. Their first leader was John C. Freeman, defeated by Buchanan. The party was made up absolutely from voters who left the ranks of other parties, and these turn-coats and their descendants today form the magnificent body of 28,000,000 Republican voters that will probably come to the polls in November.

"This morning a well-known Democrat said to me that you ought to have sense enough to know that the more Democrats the greater would be Hoover's vote. You speak of me as a Democrat. You know very well that that is a pure falsehood, not a word of truth in it. If I am spared until the November election I will cast my 16th ballot for president and four of these ballots will have been cast for Republican gubernatorial candidates. I fear you cannot say the same in regard to your support of Myers Cooper when a candidate.

"On the morning of the primaries next Tuesday about 8 o'clock I will appear at the polls and ask for a Republican ticket. Meanwhile you can approach two judges and I give them permission to question me fully as to my qualifications as a Republican voter.

"In conclusion I wish to give you a little advice: You are too old a man and so am I. Both of us soon to join the passing throng, and you ought to spend your remaining days in the peace and calmness of a happy old age and not compelling me to listen to any such life product as your letter; and I say to the Republican party the same thing: let's have harmony; let's have a pleasant campaign; a good-humored campaign. Don't stroke the cat's hair the wrong way and thereby let's break the monotony of Republican defeat of our candidates for governor.

Very truly,
Geo. B. Christian, of Marion.

Beautiful Homes Listed in Year's New Building

MARION is growing and developing at a rapid stride and Vernon Heights is the scene of one of the city's greatest 1929 activities.

This beautiful subdivision has been growing annually with a constant building program until today it stands out as Marion's most conspicuous real estate development.

The plans, when first announced a few years ago, seemed to many persons to be too far beyond the needs of a city of 28,000, but Marion has grown and prospered since then as she has done every decade since she was born, and today those that were skeptical in 1921 are among the many that feel Marion is now the possessor of a home section that would do credit to any city.

Many Advantages.

Vernon Heights is unusual in many ways—it is far removed from the dust and dirt of industry and commerce, it is just an even mile from the court-house, the property is high and rolling, the air is clean and cool with a summer breeze when heat is almost unbearable. In other sections of the city, its home owners can well be proud of their lawns, flowers, shrubbery and gardens which grow well because of the virgin soil and plenty of sunlight. The environment for the children is beyond comparison and with a four-acre wooded tract in the center of the subdivision set aside for park purposes the needs of the children are quite completely cared for.

Vernon Heights can now boast of 24 fine homes with still another to be started this fall at the extreme west end of the boulevard by Charles H. Isely. The plans for this beautiful brick home are already completed and in the hands of the contractors for bids.

This Year's Construction.
The pictures shown on this page are of the seven homes completed this year, and the two brick homes now under construction. One of them will be occupied by the owner, William Lawler, and the other being built by A. J. Millson, local contractor, will be sold when completed. It is the intention, however, to furnish it completely and open it for a week for public inspection.

Three fine home sites have recently been sold on the boulevard and if present plans are carried out new homes will grace all of these by next year.

The opening and improvement of Vernon Heights Blvd. from the end of the present asphalt paving through to the Harding Memorial and soon on to Prospect street, will be one of the outstanding improvements in Marion during its entire history. Few cities the size of Marion can boast of such a boulevard. It is 100 feet wide with a 24-foot park between the two 20-foot driveways and crosses quite a ridge just west of Vernon Heights park. It will no doubt be a very popular drive when opened to traffic.

Near Completion.
The memorial section from Delaware avenue to the west line of Vernon Heights is about completed and the new section in Vernon Heights will be completed before fall.

The complete unit will be nearly a mile and one-third in length. Four rows of trees will extend along the route and the center parkway will be seeded and beautiful.

The question of lighting the new section for protection of the public has not been settled as yet, but some definite action will no doubt be taken in the near future.

The present boulevard paving, which ends at Vernon Heights park, has been a dead-end street since it was put down, especially in wet and winter weather, but the vision of a boulevard system eventually encircling the city is now another step closer to its realization and there is no doubt that when the beauty and great need of the new boulevard begins to be appreciated steps will be taken to extend the boulevard and further improve our parks.

The Vernon Heights Co. can surely be given a great measure of credit for visualizing the future needs of Marion and giving to it a restricted subdivision that will mean more and more to its property owners and to Marion as the years go by.

It certainly took a lot of courage to sacrifice almost the entire Mt. Vernon acreage for park purposes, acres upon acres for a 100-foot boulevard and four acres for a central park.

However, the unusual cannot be achieved in the ordinary way, so Vernon Heights stands out today as the realization of a dream through achievement. At the time of its inception it was described by some as a fine thing for a city of a hundred thousand, but in the near future.

Practicable and "beyond" a city the size of Marion.

Better homes are gradually moving to the outskirts of all cities and without doubt in a very short period homesites in Vernon Heights will be selling at a premium.

REALTORS TO HOLD DISTRICT MEETINGS

A series of five district sales conferences open to all members of real estate boards and their salesmen has been announced by the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards, according to Ray Hafford, secretary of the organization.

Points at which meetings will be held are as follows: Canton, August 22; Akron, August 23; Cleveland, August 24; Dayton, August 27; and Toledo, August 28. All real estate boards within driving distance of these places have been issued invitations to attend.

REAPPOINTS SMITH.

J. E. Smith, Cleveland, has just been reappointed by Governor Donahy as a member of the state board of real estate examiners for a three-year term. J. W. Jacoby, of Marion, is president of the board.

ASKS JUDGMENT

F. E. Mahla Sues W. B. Burley for Judgment to Auto

Asking judgment of $50.17 for damages to his automobile which he says was caused by being struck by a car driven by defendant on Dec. 24 of last year, James E. Mahla brought suit against William B. Burley in court yesterday afternoon.

Mahla charges in his petition that he was driving west on East Church st. and as he approached his home at 211 East Church st. looked back to see if another car was coming before he turned right. Seeing a car coming in his drive but before he could turn the street, his car was struck head-on by the machine driven by Burley.

The petition charges Burley with driving at high speed and without due regard for the safety of others.

Will Says Slide Trombone Has Slip-Horned More Sinners into Heaven Than Nero; Greek Shot Cow in India, He Believes

By WILL ROGERS

The calf lives in the house with us—all same India

All I know is just what I read in the papers, and what I soak up in the way of loose conversation as I wander around. I "preached" or "Lectured" acced" as the hearer might call it what he may, up at Winona Lake, Indiana, the other day. It is a kind of a Chitauqua, or summer colony affair, kinder like the one in New York State.

It is on a beautiful lake, and they have lots of nice summer cottages and homes, and bathing and boating, and Frenching, and praying, and many a little cussing, when the collection is slack, the Methodists are unusually fanatical. But all in all it looked like they had an awful nice time there. It was originally started by the Presbyterians. FOR the Presbyterians. But as expenses run pretty high on maintaining a big place like that, why they had to take in some outside talent. These Presbyterians still maintain a few of the old Scotch traditions, so they figure we better let in some Methodists. They will kinder contaminate the place but what we lose in prestige we will make up of them in dues. In other words we will make em pay for being Methodist. The bars even got down so low that the Baptists go in. Well that was the last straw with the real old Presbyterians. But after it was duly explained that it would lessen his carrying load, for each and every one of these unattractive religionists, why the real old Presbyterian spirit of generosity shined itself and he said, "Well, sure, we will let em in, but get their admission at the gate."

And now the thing has just drifted along till the Protestants are practically welcome, and they all get along fine there together. If a Baptist preaches that morning, why a Methodist will lead the singing, but a Presbyterian will take up the collection, and some Congregationalist will lead the prayer, and implore the Lord that everybody at least get an even break out of what was collected.

But they are all living there just as happy as can be, and a finer bunch of folks you never saw or played to. Huh? Say there is where you get it, in the towns and country where all these people come from. Its Billy Sunday's old stumping ground. He is the first one told me about it. He was away at the time I was there. He already had these saved, and was out working on some others, but I tell you who I did see, and he is just one of the nicest fellows you ever met. That is Rodheaver.

You all know "Roddy" the great slide trombone player who always led the music in the Billy Sunday revivals. Roddy has slip-horned more sinners into the Kingdom of Heaven than any of the old timers with their Trumpets, or even the great Biblical musician Nero, who never missed a fire and played "Turkey in the straw."

Saved With Trombone. You know nobody ever thought about saving anybody with a trombone before. They have tried Tom Toms, and Oceans and Harps, and even bass drums. (more for collections, than inspirational purposes). You naturally are set and kinder guard yourself against being led down the trail by those instruments. But when something breaks out and you think you are following your first Negro Minister show parade down the street. Say, Roddy sure give that old instrument a Holy standing, and any revised addition of the Bible has sure got to give Roddy and his Slip Horn a chapter. He has a lovely home there right on the lake, with a slide that goes from the roof of his house down into the water, and you ought to hear him sing! He sure can sing. He is the fellow that can make you sing whether you want to or not. I really think that he has led more terrible voices in what was supposed to be unison than any man in the world. He gets so many terrible voices going at once till the thing sounds like a novelty, and you will think its good.

"Where Good Food and Good People Meet"

Every fellow sings for Roddy, for he knows that he cant be the worst one there, and he generally puts you know singing does more good than preaching. For when you are singing you haven't got time to think. I want to get back there again next year and see the old Gang.

Cow Story.

Then I played at Ocean Grove, New Jersey. That's another great place. Its Methodist, and they are still trying to keep it exclusive. At the hotel in Winona I met a true young fellow who had been a Missionary in India for ten years, and knowing I was interested in Cattle, and I have a real full-blooded Sacred calf "Brahma" that the Kleybergs, owners of the King Ranch, gave my kids. Its the cutest pet we ever had. Lives in the house with us, all same India. Well, this fellow was stationed at a mission in a small town and someone shot and killed one of the hundreds of cows that roam about the towns in search of food. Well he said in less than an hour there was five thousand blindfolded gathered trying to find out who did it, and that there was twelve of the most prominent ones all up with the dead cow that night, and the next day the whole town close up and they hauled her to the gauges and buried her, and there was thousands in the procession.

It was just about as pretty a cow story as I ever heard. I asked him confidentially "what missionary shot the cow?" He said "He didnt know, but he always thought it was a Greek who lived in the town," and I asked him if the Greek ran a Restaurant, and he said "Yes" and I said "That's who shot your heifer. That Greek was going to have meat on his menu, even if nobody eat it but him and the Heavens missionaries."

New Record Is Set By Airman Limited During July

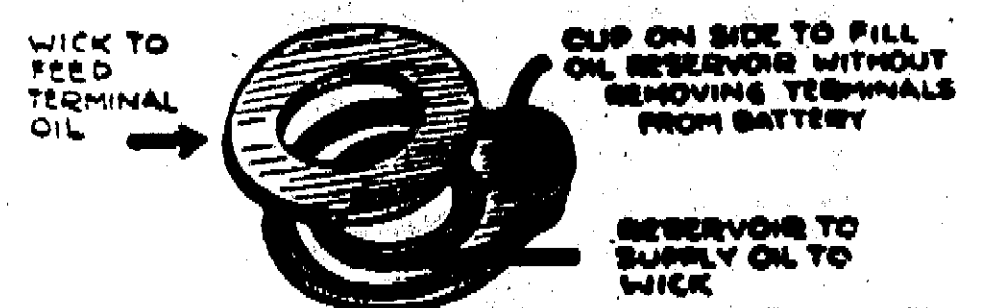

Unfilled Orders Far Exceed Shipments of New Franklin Model

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 2—Shipments of the new Airman Limited line of Franklin motor cars in July were 51 per cent. greater than in the same month of last year and established the highest July record in the history of the Franklin Automobile Company, executives declared here today.

In an interview here simultaneously with Mr. Franklin's announcement, Cannon Ball Baker said that the performance of the air-cooled Franklin in its record breaking transcontinental round trip, in which he covered 6,692 miles in 6½ days, won him over completely to the air-cooled type of engine. He stated that in all of his experience in cross country driving he had never before been behind the wheel of a motor car that gave such an outstanding performance as the Franklin Airman which clipped 10½ hours off the former record.

Obedience to God

A SERMONETTE

BY REV. G. A. KANZLER
Pastor, Salem Evangelical Church

"BUT they have not all obeyed the gospel. For certain Jews, Lord, who have believed our report?" Romans 10:16.

Man is the same disobedient creature under all dispensations. We human his rejection of the gospel and so did Isaiah, who spoke in the name of the whole company of the prophets.

It is one of the greatest proofs of the depravity of man's heart, that he will not obey the gospel when the law, but disobeys his God, whether He speaks to him in love or in law.

The average man does not desire even to be urged or to be persuaded to obey God. "I am a free moral agent. I decide for my own self. My intellect leads me. In choosing my course, etc., etc." How very dangerous this position of the "free" man, the "know it" man, the independent man.—It is not optional to men to accept or refuse obedience to God. For so it is written:

"God now commandeth all men everywhere to repent"; Acts 17:30, and He also commands them to repent and believe the gospel; Mark 1:15. To refuse to believe is in great sin; John 10:8.

Thus the insolent disobedience of our time against all authority, against the sovereign law of the land,—even against the well-meaning traffic law of the city, can forebode but one thing and that is—Christ-lessness, lawlessness, hopelessness, God-lessness—damn.

God commands us today, as of old, to be obedient unto His law and His Gospel. Obedience to law, predicated observance of law, generates a mutual respect for the liberties of our fellowmen, and kindles the fire in our souls, whereby the wayward, dusty chaff of transgression is burned, and whereby our hearts are warmed up to a true appreciation of the perfect harmony, where all creation obeys the living God.

The brand-new geysers out in Yellowstone park is attracting more newspaper attention just at present, but it's probable that reliable Old Faithful, which has been putting on its stunt every sixty-five minutes for something like 50,000 years will continue to attract more of the attention of park visitors.

Candidate Hoover says that "the time has come by when conviction can be carried by oratory," which is probably true, but some of the campaign oratory we have heard should have carried convictions.

An exchange refers to Mr. Mellon as the "greatest secretary of the treasury the country ever had." We're ready to agree that he easily is the best for the country the land ever had, but what he has done to us bloated holders of federal securities in the way of reducing interest rates on our investments has been simply awful.

The National Association of Retail Meat Dealers, in session in the City of Brotherly Love, was told by the chairman of its legislative committee that high meat prices will continue for two years. But why should we consumers worry? We have been paying the high prices so long that we have become used to them.

The expedition organized to hunt for millions of treasure in the form of diamonds which were held to have been lost at the time of the sinking of the Belgian steamer, Elizabethville, finally succeeded in bringing up the steamer's strong box and found in it $53.50 in Belgian paper francs and English gold sovereigns valued at $19.44, a total of $72.94. Somebody must have gone through the safe before the steamer went down.

Jewels owned by an Atlanta woman and valued by her at $120,000, a twenty-carat diamond ring among them, have disappeared from her suite in an Atlantic City hotel. The average man can not be too glad that his wife doesn't insist upon lugging along with her when traveling a jewelry stock like that!

On her fourth attempt as a stowaway, Betty Simpson, a twenty-five-year-old resident of Ada, Oklahoma, succeeded in landing in England. But her exploit didn't end with that. Members, ministers, lawyers, college professors, school teachers and many others of distinguished intelligence in Chicago and territory immediately adjacent, are out in the aggregate $3,000,000 as the result of some "investments" made by them through a brokerage house which was found to have assets of $5,000,000. The head was arrested for using the mails to defraud. The late Phineas T. Barnum was not too sanguine in his famous estimate.

Dwindling Passenger Business.

This week's Railway Age cites the steadily dwindling passenger carrying business of the railroads as justification for an increase in freight rates. It doesn't put it exactly like that, but it holds that the railroads can not reasonably be expected to provide for the passenger service expected and demanded of them for the return they are getting for it.

There can be no question that there has been a marked falling-off in railroad passenger carrying during the past eight years. The Railway Age offers statistics to show that passenger traffic will probably be smaller this year than in any year since 1909. If the remainder of the year doesn't show any better business than the months of the year for which statistics are available, it is sure to be.

From 1909 to 1920 there was a steady increase in railroad passenger business. The increase in the ten-year period from 1910 to 1920 was almost fifty per cent. Since 1920, there has been a decline of thirty-three per cent. Had the increase in passenger business been as great since 1920 as it was during the ten-year period preceding 1920, the annual earnings of the railroads would have been increased $300,000,000. Were the passenger business of the railroads as good today as it was in 1920, the annual earnings of the railroad would be $400,000,000 greater than they are.

"When the reasons why the railways can not stand reductions of their present freight rates, but actually need higher rates, are being considered," concludes the Railway Age, "the enormous loss of passenger business they have suffered must not be overlooked. They have facilities and under pressure of public sentiment and competition are rendering a train service sufficient to handle as much passenger business as they did in 1920, but they have thirty-three per cent. loss of that kind of business. Obviously they must get sufficient earnings from their freight, mail and express traffic and their remaining passenger traffic to pay operating expenses, taxes and a return on investment if they are to continue in business; and nobody has yet proposed that railway service shall be allowed to deteriorate, much less be abandoned."

Admittedly this is a fairly good argument from the railway side of the proposition, but there is another side. Is this day of the motor car, it will be conceded that the railroads look to long hauls for their passenger business. In traveling long distances, sleeping and chair car service must be considered. Perhaps the railroads willing to reduce the heavy charges for Pullman accommodations, put on originally as a war measure on the theory that it would keep people from traveling, there might be a marked increase in passenger travel. If the traveler will look at his Pullman ticket he will see that one-third of the charge therefor is the share of the railroad. In other words, the railroads will leave a ticket to carry a passenger in their own cars for a fixed amount, but if they carry the same passenger in a Pullman, on which the Pullman company stands the wear and tear—and some Pullmans being run show an awful lot of wear and tear—they charge him thirty-three and a third per cent. more for so doing.

When this added burden on the traveling public is removed, it is not unlikely that the railroads will begin to notice an improvement in their passenger business. As it is, the traveler is being penalized for patronizing the railroads, and naturally, whenever it is feasible to do so, he uses his motor car not only to avoid the penalty, but to resent the imposition practiced upon him.

"When will it come out that President Coolidge was for Hoover from the very first?" Where will one be found who for a moment doubted it?

The expedition of the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago has unearthed the famous tablets of Solomon at Armageddon in Palestine and discovered tablets which show that he was not only a breeder of race horses, but drove them to a chariot as well, which goes to confirm a suspicion of long standing that the famous temple builder and writer of songs was something of a sport.

Having done a little additional figuring, the scientists now say that the big shower of meteors predicted to appear in the north-eastern sky tonight will reach its maximum from midnight on through the early hours of Sunday morning. Those who make a practice of permitting their Saturday night social diversions to run into the next day may profitably take due notice and get a look-in at the big show.

Vagrant Verse.
AN OLD TALE.
All down the countryside, dark and delectable, A minstrel went singing. He filled the bright air
With something more than melody. The quivering notes
Were sweet as golden music from wild bird throats.
Folk on the countryside and folk in the town— First they stopped to listen; then they followed down.
And their good golden pieces, in a shining shower,
Filled the minstrel's pockets in less than an hour.
On went the minstrel along the countryside, And he met Love traveling with Beauty, his bride;
Looking for a roof and a hearth and a bed; Looking for a green place with houghs over-spread.
Dust on their sandals and wonder in their eyes,
On their lips a low song that trembled to their skies.
And all the golden pieces his golden voice had earned,
The minstrel poured before them. And, oh! his heart burned.
And "Oh," he said, and hailed them, "now buy a wide shack
And feast you all the fools that fare around the world and back."
And on he went, singing across the countryside,
And turning pilgrims to the door of Love and his bride.

"WHAT! ANOTHER OLIVE BRANCH?"

Concerning Boils.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
When the devil wanted to try the patience of a good man by afflicting his body with disease, he selected as his agent a germ called the "staphylococcus." And every since the days of Job, innumerable members of the human family can testify to the fact that it was a well-directed choice.

A boil seems a very small thing—when it is on the other fellow. But when you yourself have been selected by the staphylococcus as the object of its attention, the boil at once becomes a very annoying, and perhaps an extremely painful thing.

Like all other germs, the one which is responsible for boils is powerful to harm the human being until it finds a vulnerable point of attack. In order to do its work the germ must penetrate the tissues of the body. Simply for it to alight on the skin is insufficient. It must be rubbed in or scratched in, or in some other way made to penetrate into the substance of the skin. This is why boils usually come on the parts which are rubbed by the clothing, such as the neck or the buttocks.

When the first sign of a boil appears, it may sometimes be aborted by the application of iodine or other strong antiseptic. If this treatment is unsuccessful and the boil develops, repeated application of hot water or of camphor may reduce the inflammation. It is usually necessary, however, to incise the boil in order to promote the drainage.

The worst thing about a boil is that when once the infection gets into the system it seldom lets the victim off with the first boil. "Crops" of boils are likely to follow.

Should a second boil appear, the general health should be investigated. The kidneys should be examined and the bowels watched.

When a tendency to boils has shown itself, pastry and very rich foods should be avoided and a simple diet should be taken. Fresh air, sunshine, lots of water to drink and daily exercise to the point of perspiration are essential. Fresh lemonade or lemon juice every day is good.

For a succession of boils the doctor should always be consulted. He will tell you if it is advisable to have a vaccine made to control the disease.

Another Mysterious Radiation.

BY GARRETT F. SERVICE.
About four years ago a Russian, Professor Alexander Gurwitsch, of Moscow, announced that an invisible radiation is emitted by the tips of certain animal tissues in a similar state of development, and that these strange rays, are capable of stimulating the growth of living matter not in direct contact with the source of the radiation. Science Service remarks that this announcement was received with much skepticism, but that the assertions of the Moscow scientist have recently been confirmed by investigators in Germany. The remarkable nature of the phenomenon is shown by the following statement:

"Gurwitsch found that if the tip of one of the rootlets of an onion or a turnip was fixed so as to point at right angles to the side of another root, though as much as a quarter of an inch away, the cells in the side nearest the tip would multiply more rapidly than elsewhere, and so bend the root away."

A natural supposition was that some gaseous emanation from the growing vegetable tip produced the stimulation of the neighboring tissue across the gap; but this seemed to be disproved by experiments in which interposed sheets of gelatine stopped the passage of the stimulus, but a sheet of quartz glass allowed it to pass freely.

This fact instantly suggested that the radiation must resemble ultra-violet rays, which also pass freely through quartz. Gurwitsch calculated that the mysterious radiation has a wave-length of only 200 millimicrons. A millimicron is a millionth of a millimeter. This assimilates the newly-discovered radiation to ultra-violet light of high frequency.

The German scientists who have more lately been working on the subject have, as reported by Science Service, repeated the experiments with bean and onion roots. The botanist, N. Wagner, has, by counting the new cells produced under the influence of the stimulating rays, detected an increase of seventy per cent. in cell growth. Old cells that have ceased growing show the greatest relative increase.

The bacteriologist, M. A. Baron, has found the radiation to be emitted by the tips of root-stools, and reports that the rays from onion roots accelerate the growth of anthrax bacilli and other bacteria.

To cap all, Drs. Hauser and Vahle of the Siemens Electrical company report, according to the same authority, that certain growing animal tissues, such as cancer, emit these growth-generating rays. It will be remembered that cancer cells are remarkable for their proliferative power.

These remarkable discoveries, which may result in surprising changes in biological theory and in at present unguessable new knowledge of the nature of life, justify the conclusion on which some recent contributions to the cause of research have been based, viz., that the most promising avenue for the advancement of science is that new opening through the labyrinth of radiant energy in almost infinitesimal quantities, invisibly it descends in wave envelopes, showing from starry space to effect some grand result from starry space; while on the other hand, in a different form and in minute quantities, it issues from growing plants and, itself an associate of vital energy, contributes its mysterious virtue to other, living things.—Copyright, 1925, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MURPHY.
New York, Aug. 11.—One of the perpetually peevish against New York is its reputed "worship of money." The truth is there is no place where money—as a symbol of greatness—is regarded so lightly. And it is equally true no place is so agreeable in which to be broke as the metropolis.

New York has many millionaires to cause a turn of the head. Nearly every New Yorker numbers a millionaire or so among his acquaintances, but if a millionaire is not distinguished for something more than mere money-making he is dubbed "a sap with a roll."

It has been reported here time after time that the man with enormous wealth has no chance of breaking into the real upper crust of society. Millions have been spent in this vain endeavor by the newly rich. But they get no further than that circle known as "safe society."

The small town is far more pliable in its gentleness to riches. The richest man's wife in a small town as a rule automatically becomes the leader of the local social set. Intellectual or lineal qualifications count for little.

And those who are admitted to the charmed circle are usually graded socially according to their purse. There are exceptions to this, especially in southern small towns, but the idea is general. On the other hand New York society has taken up a number of artists, musicians and novelists financially impoverished.

Those who have tricked their way into the so-called 400 are not those who posed as wealthy, but who have rigged up spurious blue-blooded affiliations. The jaded family crest has frequently provoked an open sneer. While a season box at the opera has proved a beautiful bower.

Indeed, there is a select little gathering in New York known as "The Poor Millionaire" club. The idea is to travesty their plight, but there is a touch of pathos. Members are men who have made over-night fortunes and found it didn't mean a thing socially.

A few years ago there was an amusing get-together of society crashers. They adopted a plan of parting their names in the middle in the hope of being asked to come to society affairs and bring along their hyphen. But all the notion received was a barrage of paragraphing persiflage.

Most every writer who touches upon any phase of New York society receives a batch of scurrilous and anonymous letters a few days later. The letters evidently come from some one touched by a slight monomania. The writer believes members of society comprise a vicious circle intent on founding a monarchy to crush the poor.

Too, there are those letter-writing busybodies who take it in the columnist's eye by righting "I's" or tearing out the comma and writing obscene epithets across them. I have a unique collection and am always glad to add to it so long as postage is prepaid.

Strangely enough, the columnist soon finds himself receiving such missives in the dourish manner of proverbial water on the duck's back. After reading some of the drivel of my own as well as some of my conferees, the wonder is we don't receive this as at just fun, of course—something that explores in the hand.

The most vicious of the epistolary eruptions came to me from a city in South America. Something depicting bull fighting and the like began to appear in the columns. You are the following:— and there followed four pages of closely-typed venomous names. I had to stay awake all night knitting up the tattered sleeve of journalistic pride.

It is but fair, however, to chronicle that columnist receive more friendly letters than the other kind. Far more than they deserve. But even so a "Be Kind to Columnists" week would be a boon.—Copyright, 1925, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.
Now and then we cast up our accounts. At least we cast them up in our minds. It is good to think over the assets of our lives and to face frankly the liabilities. It is good to add-up the profits and the losses.

What we get out of life is a matter of net. We have certain distinct losses, certain serious liabilities, certain sad mistakes to offset. On the other hand, we have definite gains, definite intakes, definite assets. The difference is the net.

In casting up your accounts you are not likely to find any greater assets than old tried, trusted, and true friends.

The English language is the most perfect tool for the communication of ideas that has ever been devised in the history of man.

It has nearly half a million words. Most of us get along with from one to three thousand words. Shakespeare is said to have used as many as 12,000.

One hundred and fifty million people speak the English language. German is spoken by 120,000,000, Russian by 90,000,000 and French by 80,000,000.

The English language is richer in synonyms, richer in the power of contrast and expression than any other.

Words are tools in the trade of living. The more words you use easily and accurately, the better workman you are. The better your use of language, the more you can achieve, the further you can get.

Newton D. Baker, once secretary of war, giving an address at Oberlin college, told of three friends of his who like to argue. They meet often for the fun of tossing a subject in to the air.

Meditations
OF A
Married
Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND
LOVE AND LEVITY
HEIGHT-LO! In just a tow short years, marriage has changed I from a Gossamer Knot to a Slipknot! The kiss of a woman, like the bite of a hero, can last just a little too long.

No man is in love who is not certain of it. When a man is really in love he KNOWS it, precisely as he knows when he is really starving, really drowning, or really being run over by a taxicab.

Singled wings may grow again, but a singed soul is the parched ground left by burned-out emotions, scorched faith, and withered illusions.

It takes three strokes of luck to get a good husband, first, the luck to find one in a world of egoists; second, the luck to choose one out of a world full of shells; and third, the luck to make him choose YOU out of a world full of vamps.

Somewhat, it is nearly always an empty-headed woman who starts a fool feud or invents a freak fashion that all the brilliant and intelligent women rush to follow.

The saddest result of all this petting is that, some day, men and women will be so fed up with kissing that one of life's sweetest pastimes will be cast into the discard along with mahjong and ping pong.

Many a secondhand has lived down his crime, but once the world gets its little joke on him, not even a hero can live down its ridicule.
